

As a lawyer practicing law in London Ontario Canada, initially as corporate counsel for a major international company and later in private practice, for over thirty years, I have made it my business to stay abreast of the latest trends and developments in the areas of law set forth in our index. Recognizing that the law is also a business, we have also ensured that our staff and resource contacts are efficient, knowledgeable and professional in their dealings with our clients. Our law firm's commitment to utilization of the latest computer hardware and software, telecommunications and Internet services has permitted me and my experienced staff to provide the kind of prompt efficient service that our clients deserve and demand.

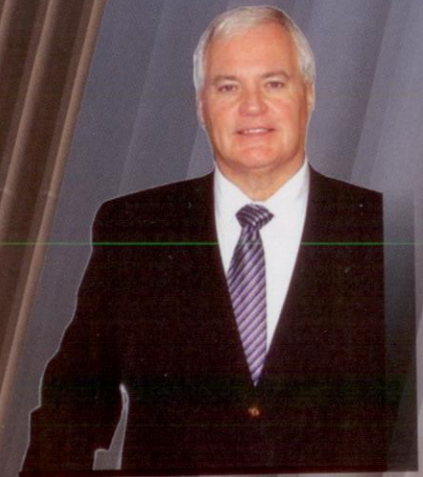

I take special care to communicate clearly and effectively with all clients in regard to their specific legal issues whether it be corporate and commercial law, small business law, real estate and property, landlord and tenant, or wills and estates.

Practicing law for over 30 years, Mr. Quigley has established a reputation for quality legal assistance at a reasonable cost.
